Dear Prof. Zhao Min,

Greetings from the University of Verona, Italy.

I am writing to you in order to express my deep gratitude to Wenzhou University for the concern you expressed and for willing to help and support us in dealing with the challenging emergency due to the Covid-19 pandemic.

As you may know, the Veneto Region - where Verona is located - is one of the Northern-Italian regions most affected by the epidemic and our University hospitals are at the forefront in facing the emergency.

The need of medical devices such as gloves, masks, goggles, protective suits is growing faster and faster while the supply times are getting longer, as the request all around Europe is comprehensibly high.

That is why we are immensely grateful and willing to accept your kind offer. We will be glad to receive all kinds of medical supplies you are presently in condition to send. These will be promptly provided to Verona University Hospitals.

Parcels could be sent to:

Università degli Studi di Verona
Rettorato – Palazzo Giuliani
Via dell'Artigliere, 8
37129 Verona - IT

In these difficult times, while we are fighting this dangerous enemy, it gives us comfort to think that this crisis provides in fact a valuable opportunity to strengthen the scientific and cultural ties we have with your University and your Country, which we particularly value. It is often in difficult times that strong and long-lasting friendships arise.

Again, I would like to express the deepest gratitude of the University of Verona academic community and institutional representatives to you, to your University and to all the Wenzhou community for your timely help.

Yours sincerely,
Prof. Pier Francesco Nocini
Rector
University of Verona
